1 of 1 review helpful Exceeds Expectations By B Marsh Dr Bradburn provides a personal and concise account of the ten year campaign to designate Horn and Petit Bois Islands as wilderness areas What a wonderful story and what tremendous success Having visited Horn and Petit Bois many times I personally attest that his collection of photographs are a superb representation of the natural wilderness beauty of the islands Th Rarely has a book of photography performed a more poignant and immediate service in preserving a natural Mississippi wonder The Mississippi Gulf Coast barrier islands captured the heart and mind of Donald Bradburn b 1924 in childhood He became fascinated with the natural history and ornithology he witnessed To him the islands especially Horn Island with its dark forests high dunes and deserted beaches represented unbounded freedom and the ideal of a timeles From the Inside Flap A stunning record of the once pristine beauty of the islands shielding Mississippi s Gulf Coast About the Author Donald Muir Bradburn New Orleans Louisiana is a retired pathologist During his sixty y
