Before publishing his pioneering book How the Other Half Lives — a photojournalistic investigation into the poverty of New York's tenement houses home to three quarters of the city's population — Jacob Riis 1849-1914 spent his first years in the United States as an immigrant and itinerant laborer barely surviving on his carpentry skills until he landed a job as a muckraking reporter. These early experiences provided Riis with an understanding of the city's conditions. An evocative and valuable reminder both of one unrelenting individual's ability to make a difference and of the relevance of his revelations to the painfully familiar problems we face today.
